

Independent and Assisted Living in Woburn, MA

NEW RESIDENTS

Anne Alikonis, Suite 370, is a first-generation American whose parents emigrated from Ireland. She grew up in Somerville and later went to work as a secretary at John Hancock. Anne met Ed, her future husband, while attending a dance with her colleagues at the Charlestown Navy Yard. The pair had four children. Thanks to Ed's career with Delta Air Lines, they traveled extensively to the Caribbean, Hawaii, and many other destinations. Anne now most enjoys knitting and reading books of all genres.

William "Bill" Lannon, Suite 344, is originally from Bridgeport, CT. After attending Fairfield College Preparatory School, he earned undergraduate and graduate degrees from Fairfield University and University of Bridgeport, respectively. Bill spent his career in the academic realm as well, and retired as school superintendent for the city of Cambridge. A father of eight, he fondly remembers afternoons playing golf and family ski trips to a cabin in Maine.

David Mooney, Suite 352, joins us from his apartment at Glenbrook Estates here in Woburn. Born and raised in Arlington, he made his career as a schoolteacher and enjoyed summers on Cape Cod, particularly in West Dennis and Wellfleet. David enjoys staying active, and walks a few miles each day. When he finds time to relax, he can be found immersed in a British detective novel.

Ed Sweeney, Suite 438, grew up in Charlestown and graduated from Don Bosco Technical High School. He pursued a career in the financial industry, and held positions as a financial consultant, a bank president, and a senior bank commissioner. A natural athlete, this father of four excelled at hockey, softball, golf, and tennis. These days, Ed enjoys the company of his family—which includes 10 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren—as well as reading novels and playing trivia.

We extend a warm welcome to Anne, Bill, David, and Ed.
