

Independent and Assisted Living in Woburn, MA

NEW RESIDENTS

Eileen Kelly, Suite 439, grew up in Belmont and Watertown, and later made her home in Medford for more than 50 years. A teacher by trade, she taught grade two until leaving to have the first of what would be five children in an eight-year span. Eileen has traveled across the United States as well as in the Bahamas and beyond, and especially enjoyed a trip to Paris and Italy with her grown children. The former Lahey Clinic volunteer now spends her spare time curled up with a good mystery novel.

Ellen Smith, Suite 348, was born and raised in Somerville. Upon her marriage, she moved to Arlington, to the house she would reside in for 54 years. She enjoyed a varied career, working for a lumber company just after high school, followed by a government position with the Welfare Department. She returned to the workforce, at Bank of America, after raising her two children. Ellen fondly recalls summer vacations spent all over New England as well as trips to the Caribbean. A fan of music, her favorite genres include easy listening and Irish music.

Mary Jo Walters, 433, joins us from her home in Portland, ME to be closer to her son, a nearby neighbor of New Horizons. A Columbus, OH native, she graduated from Ohio State with a BA in Theater and Communications, and later earned a BS in Psychology from the College of Staten Island. Mary Jo honed her craft in the big cities, participating in Summer Stock productions while living in Chicago and the Shakespeare Festival while residing in New York City. Her many interests today include gardening, playing bridge, reading, traveling, visiting art museums, and all things theater.

We extend a warm welcome to Eileen, Ellen, and Mary Jo!

A MILESTONE IN GIVING: Resident Victor Skowronski (pictured) enjoys walking and cycling. This athletic individual is also a humanitarian, having now donated 10 gallons of blood during his lifetime.
